After looking into colours, prints, and the general style of clothing pieces that are in store for us, we can't be more excited! When you cast your gaze downwards, you will be captivated by the wide array of fabulous staring back at you. Here's a list of three shoe trends spotted that aren't likely to be going anywhere anytime soon:

1. Velvet. In shades of burgundy and pink powder, it's the new object of desire.
2. Fur. Designers are enchanted by its appeal – mostly for the accessories – and it's no longer a stranger on the catwalk. It's being seen everywhere from ankle boots to slippers and open sandals, it provokes a challenge between weather and style.
3. Bondage. Partly due to our obsession with 50 Shades of Grey, most shoes are full of strings and laces that wrap around you. This creates a sexy and provocative look that flirts with the bodices of the Victorian era.

While all of the key footwear trends aren't the most wearable, these three promise to add versatility to your wardrobe. You'll be sure to find at least one style you'll be excited to strut down the sidewalk this September!
